Any other interpretation of the BPCIA would render superfluous subsection (l)(9)(B), which states:

If a subsection (k) applicant fails to complete an action required of the subsection (k) applicant under paragraph (3)(B)(ii), paragraph (5), paragraph (6)(C)(i), paragraph (7), or paragraph (8)(A), the reference product sponsor, but not the subsection (k) applicant, may bring an action under section 2201 of title 28 for a declaration of infringement, validity, or enforceability of any patent included in the list described in paragraph (3)(A), including as provided under paragraph (7).

(Emphasis added). Thus, the BPCIA expressly contemplates and provides for the situation where a biosimilar applicant declines to provide a Notice of Commercial Marketing, which triggers a reference product sponsor's right to bring suit under BPCIA subsection (l)(9)(B). Apotex denies all remaining allegations of Paragraph 57.

58. Paragraph 58 contains legal conclusions and allegations to which no answer is required. To the extent an answer is required, Apotex denies all allegations of Paragraph 58.

FOURTH COUNT
(DECLARATORY JUDGMENT THAT APOTEX'S
NOTICE OF COMMERCIAL MARKETING VIOLATES 42 U.S.C. § 262(l)(8)(A))

81. Apotex incorporates by reference its answers to the allegations of ¶¶ 1-80 as if fully set forth herein.

82. Paragraph 82 contains legal conclusions and allegations to which no answer is required. To the extent an answer is required, Apotex admits that Plaintiffs have accurately quoted a portion of 42 U.S.C. § 262(l)(8)(A). Apotex denies all characterizations of the law that are inconsistent with the referenced statutes and pertinent case law. Where a biosimilar applicant has provided the reference product sponsor with the required information pursuant to § 262(l)(2)(A), the BPCIA gives such biosimilar applicant the option to either provide the reference product sponsor a Notice of Commercial Marketing under 42 U.S.C. § 262(l)(8)(A) or to face an action under 28 U.S.C. § 2201 for a declaration of patent infringement. Any other interpretation of the BPCIA would render superfluous subsection (l)(9)(B), which states:

If a subsection (k) applicant fails to complete an action required of the subsection (k) applicant under paragraph (3)(B)(ii), paragraph (5), paragraph (6)(C)(i), paragraph (7), or paragraph (8)(A), the reference product sponsor, but not the subsection (k) applicant, may bring an action under section 2201 of title 28 for a declaration of infringement, validity, or enforceability of any patent included in the list described in paragraph (3)(A), including as provided under paragraph (7).

(Emphasis added). Thus, the BPCIA expressly contemplates and provides for the situation where a biosimilar applicant declines to provide a Notice of Commercial Marketing, which triggers a reference product sponsor's right to bring suit under BPCIA subsection (l)(9)(B). Apotex denies all remaining allegations of Paragraph 82.

83. Paragraph 83 contains legal conclusions and allegations to which no answer is required. To the extent an answer is required, Apotex denies all characterizations of the law that are inconsistent with the referenced statutes and pertinent case law. Apotex admits that in a letter dated April 17, 2015, Apotex provided Notice of Commercial Marketing to reference product sponsor, Amgen Inc., for Apotex's Pegfilgrastim Product, described in the Apotex BLA, pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 262(l)(8)(A). Apotex further admits that its Pegfilgrastim Product has not yet been approved for licensure by the FDA. Apotex denies all remaining allegations of Paragraph 83.

84. Paragraph 84 contains legal conclusions and allegations to which no answer is required. To the extent an answer is required, where a biosimilar applicant has provided the reference product sponsor with the required information pursuant to § 262 (l)(2)(A), the BPCIA gives such biosimilar applicant the option to either provide the reference product sponsor a Notice of Commercial Marketing under 42 U.S.C. § 262(l)(8)(A) or to face an action under 28 U.S.C. § 2201 for a declaration of patent infringement. Any other interpretation of the BPCIA would render superfluous subsection (l)(9)(B), which states:

If a subsection (k) applicant fails to complete an action required of the subsection (k) applicant under paragraph (3)(B)(ii), paragraph (5), paragraph (6)(C)(i), paragraph (7), or paragraph (8)(A), the reference product sponsor, but not the subsection (k) applicant, may bring an action under section 2201 of title 28 for a declaration of infringement, validity, or enforceability of any patent included in the list described in paragraph (3)(A), including as provided under paragraph (7).

(Emphasis added). Thus, the BPCIA expressly contemplates and provides for the situation where a biosimilar applicant declines to provide a Notice of Commercial Marketing, which triggers a reference product sponsor's right to bring suit under BPCIA subsection (l)(9)(B). Apotex denies all remaining allegations of Paragraph 84.

85. Apotex admits that it is seeking approval from the FDA to market its Pegfilgrastim Product after FDA-approval of Apotex's BLA. Apotex denies all remaining allegations of Paragraph 85.

86. Paragraph 86 contains legal conclusions and allegations to which no answer is required. Apotex denies all remaining allegations of Paragraph 86.

87. Paragraph 87 contains legal conclusions and allegations to which no answer is required. To the extent an answer is required, where a biosimilar applicant has provided the reference product sponsor with the required information pursuant to § 262(l)(2)(A), the BPCIA gives such biosimilar applicant the option to either provide the reference product sponsor a Notice of Commercial Marketing under 42 U.S.C. § 262(l)(8)(A) or to face an action under 28 U.S.C. § 2201 for a declaration of patent infringement. Any other interpretation of the BPCIA would render superfluous subsection (l)(9)(B), which states:

If a subsection (k) applicant fails to complete an action required of the subsection (k) applicant under paragraph (3)(B)(ii), paragraph (5), paragraph (6)(C)(i), paragraph (7), or paragraph (8)(A), the reference product sponsor, but not the subsection (k) applicant, may bring an action under section 2201 of title 28 for a declaration of infringement, validity, or enforceability of any patent included in the list described in paragraph (3)(A), including as provided under paragraph (7).

(Emphasis added). Thus, the BPCIA expressly contemplates and provides for the situation where a biosimilar applicant declines to provide a Notice of Commercial Marketing, which triggers a reference product sponsor's right to bring suit under BPCIA subsection (l)(9)(B).

Apotex denies all remaining allegations of Paragraph 87.

88. Paragraph 88 contains legal conclusions and allegations to which no answer is required. To the extent an answer is required, where a biosimilar applicant has provided the reference product sponsor with the required information pursuant to § 262(l)(2)(A), the BPCIA gives such biosimilar applicant the option to either provide the reference product sponsor a Notice of Commercial Marketing under 42 U.S.C. § 262(l)(8)(A) or to face an action under 28

U.S.C. § 2201 for a declaration of patent infringement. Any other interpretation of the BPCIA would render superfluous subsection (l)(9)(B), which states:

If a subsection (k) applicant fails to complete an action required of the subsection (k) applicant under paragraph (3)(B)(ii), paragraph (5), paragraph (6)(C)(i), paragraph (7), or paragraph (8)(A), the reference product sponsor, but not the subsection (k) applicant, may bring an action under section 2201 of title 28 for a declaration of infringement, validity, or enforceability of any patent included in the list described in paragraph (3)(A), including as provided under paragraph (7).

(Emphasis added). Thus, the BPCIA expressly contemplates and provides for the situation where a biosimilar applicant declines to provide a Notice of Commercial Marketing, which triggers a reference product sponsor's right, under BPCIA subsection (l)(9)(B), to bring an action under 28 U.S.C. § 2201 for a declaration of patent infringement. Contrary to Plaintiffs' interpretation, the BPCIA does not allow the reference product sponsor to obtain an injunction if the biosimilar applicant elects not to provide a notice of commercial marketing. Apotex denies all remaining allegations of Paragraph 88.

The submission of Apotex's BLA seeking approval to market Apotex's Pegfilgrastim Product does not infringe, directly or indirectly, any valid and/or enforceable claim of the '138 patent or the '784 patent, either literally or under the doctrine of equivalents.

THIRD AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE
(No Direct Infringement)

Apotex has not, does not, and will not infringe, either literally or under the doctrine of equivalents, any valid and/or enforceable claim of the '138 or '784 patents.

FOURTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE
(No Indirect Infringement)

Apotex has not, does not, and will not induce the infringement of, or contribute to the infringement of, any valid and/or enforceable claim of the '138 or '784 patents.

FIFTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE
(Invalidity)

The '138 patent and each of the claims thereof are invalid for failure to comply with one or more conditions for patentability set forth in one or more provision of 35 U.S.C. §§ 101, 102, 103, and/or 112, or other judicially-created bases for invalidation.

SIXTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

Plaintiffs are not entitled to preliminary and/or permanent equitable relief, including but not limited to a preliminary and/or permanent injunction that enjoins Apotex, their officers, partners, agents, servants, employees, attorneys, affiliates, divisions, subsidiaries, other related business entities, and those persons in active concert or participation with any of them from any commercial manufacture, use, offer to sell or sale within the United States, or importation into the United States, of any product that purportedly infringes, or the use or manufacture of which purportedly infringes the '138 patent or the '784 patent.

SEVENTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

Apotex's actions in defending this case do not give rise to an exceptional case under 35 U.S.C. § 285.

RESERVATION OF DEFENSES

Apotex hereby reserves any and all defenses that are available under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and the U.S. Patent Laws and any other defenses, at law or in equity, that may now exist or become available later as a result of discovery and further factual investigation during this litigation.

BACKGROUND

Counterclaim Defendants and Biologics

9. Counterclaim Defendants are engaged in the development, commercialization, and marketing of pharmaceutical products, including biological products, for the treatment of various disorders.

10. Before marketing a biological product in the United States, a manufacturer must submit a Biologic License Application (“BLA”) and the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (“FDA”) must approve it.

11. Among other things, the BLA must contain a full description of manufacturing methods and nonclinical laboratory and clinical studies which demonstrate that the manufactured product meets required safety, purity, and potency standards.

12. The FDA only approves a biologic if it determines that the product meets applicable requirements to ensure safety, purity, and potency of such products.

13. On January 31, 2002, the FDA approved Amgen’s BLA No. 125031 for pegfilgrastim, marketed under the trade name Neulasta®.

14. Amgen's 12 year market exclusivity for its Neulasta® product has expired. See 42 USC § 262(k)(7)(a).

15. According to the FDA-approved label for Neulasta®, it is indicated to decrease the incidence of infection, as manifested by febrile neutropenia, in patients with non-myeloid malignancies receiving myelosuppressive anti-cancer drugs associated with a clinically significant incidence of febrile neutropenia.

16. For the fiscal year ending December 31, 2014, Amgen's net revenues were $3.649 billion in the U.S. alone for Neulasta®. See Amgen's 10-K at pp. 45 and F-49.

Apotex and Biosimilars

17. Apotex is engaged in the development, commercialization, and marketing of generic pharmaceutical products, including biosimilars, for the treatment of various disorders.

18. Biosimilars are biological products intended to be clinically similar to a previously FDA-approved biological reference product ("reference product"). In this sense, biosimilars are like "generics" for small molecule drugs.

19. Biosimilars are licensed by the FDA under the provisions of the BPCIA.

20. Enacted in 2010 as part of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, the BPCIA creates an abbreviated licensure pathway for biological products shown to be biosimilar to the reference product. See BPCIA §§ 7001-7003, Pub. L. No. 111-148, 124 Stat 119, 804-21 (2010).

21. The licensure pathway is considered "abbreviated" because the biosimilar applicant (also known as a "subsection (k) applicant") is not required to provide the full scale of preclinical and clinical test data required for approval of the reference product. Rather, the biosimilar applicant must demonstrate that the biosimilar is "highly similar to the reference product notwithstanding minor differences in clinically inactive components” and that “there are no clinically meaningful differences between the biological product and the reference product in terms of the safety, purity, and potency of the product.” See 42 U.S.C. § 262 (i)(2).

22. Congress enacted the BPCIA with the intent to provide a “biosimilars pathway balancing innovation and consumer interests.” See BPCIA, § 7001(b), Pub. L. No. 111-148, 124 Stat at 804.

23. Biosimilars, like generic drugs, are expected to provide a price advantage over the reference product. Consequently, biosimilars are also expected to be utilized in an effort to control health-care costs.

24. Similarly, the introduction of biosimilars as alternatives to reference products, like the introduction of generic drugs as alternatives to brand-name drugs, is expected to reduce the market share of reference products.

25. On or about October 16, 2014, Apotex submitted BLA No. 761026 (“Apotex’s BLA”), seeking FDA approval to market a biosimilar pegfilgrastim product, for which Neulasta® is the reference product (“Apotex’s Pegfilgrastim Product”).

The Patents-In-Suit

U.S. Patent No. 5,824,784

26. On information and belief, Amgen is the owner of U.S. Patent No. 5,824,784 (“the ’784 patent”).

27. The ’784 patent is entitled: “N-Terminally Chemically Modified Protein Compositions and Methods” and issued on October 20, 1998.

28. The ’784 patent expires on or about October 20, 2015.

29. Prior to commencement of the current litigation, Apotex notified Counterclaim Defendants in their Detailed Statement that Apotex does not intend to begin commercial marketing of its Pegfilgrastim Product before the date on which the '784 patent expires.

U.S. Patent No. 8,952,138

30. On information and belief, Amgen is the owner of U.S. Patent No. 8,952,138 (“the '138 patent”).

31. The '138 patent is entitled “Refolding Proteins Using a Chemically Controlled Redox State” and issued on February 10, 2015.

32. The sole independent claim of the '138 patent purports to claim, inter alia, “A method of refolding a protein expressed in a non-mammalian expression system and present in a volume at a concentration of 2.0 g/L or greater comprising: (a) contacting the protein with a refold buffer comprising a redox component comprising a final thiol-pair ratio having a range of 0.001 to 100 and a redox buffer strength of 2 mM or greater . . .” See '138 patent, claim 1.

33. The '138 patent does not disclose a method of refolding any specific protein, much less the protein found in Apotex’s Pegfilgrastim Product.

COUNT I
(Declaratory Judgment of Noninfringement of the '138 patent)

34. Apotex hereby incorporates by reference each and every allegation set forth in its Answer and Affirmative Defenses and ¶¶ 1-33 of these Counterclaims.

35. In their Complaint, Counterclaim Defendants assert that Apotex committed a statutory act of infringement under 35 U.S.C. § 271(e)(2)(C)(i) by submitting Apotex’s BLA to the FDA.

36. Apotex asserts that the manufacture, use, offer for sale, sale, or importation of Apotex's Pegfilgrastim Product does not and will not infringe any valid claim of the '138 patent under 35 U.S.C. §§ 271(a), (b), (c), or (g), or (e)(2)(C)(i).

37. The '138 patent includes claims that purport to cover methods of refolding proteins expressed in non-mammalian expression systems and present at a concentration of 2.0 g/L or greater comprising, inter alia, contacting the protein with a refold buffer comprising a redox component with a final thiol-pair ratio of 0.001 to 100 and a redox buffer strength of 2 mM or greater.

38. The '138 patent does not claim the method of manufacturing Apotex's Pegfilgrastim Product.

39. The method of manufacturing Apotex's Pegfilgrastim Product requires a protein concentration that does not fall within the "2.0 g/L or greater" concentration claimed in the '138 patent. Instead, Apotex's BLA requires, through specification and quality control measures, that the protein concentration in the refold buffer fall well outside the concentration claimed in the '138 patent.

40. The method of manufacturing Apotex's Pegfilgrastim Product also includes a redox buffer strength that does not fall within the "2 mM or greater" concentration claimed in the '138 patent. Instead, Apotex's BLA requires, through specification and quality control measures, that the redox buffer strength fall well outside the range claimed in the '138 patent.

41. An actual, substantial, and continuing justiciable case or controversy exists between Counterclaim Defendants and Apotex regarding infringement of the '138 patent.

42. Apotex is entitled to a declaration that the manufacture, use, offer for sale, sale, or importation of Apotex's Pegfilgrastim Product that is the subject of Apotex's BLA has not, does not, and will not infringe any valid and/or enforceable claim of the '138 patent under 35 U.S.C. §§ 271(a), (b), (c), or (g), or (e)(2)(C).

43. Such a declaration is necessary and appropriate at this time to determine the rights and obligations of the parties.

44. This is an exceptional case, and Apotex is entitled to an award of attorneys' fees under 35 U.S.C. § 285.

COUNT II
(Declaratory Judgment of Invalidity of the '138 patent)

45. Apotex hereby incorporates by reference each and every allegation set forth in its Answer and Affirmative Defenses to the Complaint and ¶¶ 1-44 of these Counterclaims.

46. In their Complaint, Counterclaim Defendants assert that Apotex committed a statutory act of infringement under 35 U.S.C. § 271(e)(2)(C)(i) by submitting Apotex's BLA to the FDA.

47. Apotex asserts that the claims of the '138 patent are invalid for failure to comply with one or more of the conditions for patentability set forth in Title 35 of the United States Code.

48. An actual, substantial, and continuing justiciable case or controversy between Counterclaim Defendants and Apotex regarding the validity of the '138 patent.

49. Apotex is entitled to a declaration that the claims of the '138 patent are invalid.

50. Such a declaration is necessary and appropriate at this time to determine the rights and obligations of the parties.

COUNT III

(Unlawful Monopolization in Violation of the Sherman Act: Sham Litigation)

51. Apotex hereby incorporates by reference each and every allegation set forth in its Answer and Affirmative Defenses to the Complaint and ¶¶ 1-50 of these Counterclaims.

52. This claim arises under Section 2 of the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. § 2, and under Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C. §§ 15 and 26.

The Relevant Market and Counterclaim Defendants' Monopoly Power

53. Counterclaim Defendants are engaged in the development, commercialization, and marketing of pharmaceutical products, including biological products, for the treatment of various disorders.

54. Apotex is engaged in the development, commercialization, and marketing of generic pharmaceutical products, including biosimilars, for the treatment of various disorders.

55. The relevant geographic market is the United States.

56. The relevant product market is the market for pegfilgrastim.

57. On information and belief, Counterclaim Defendants are currently the only entity in the United States marketing a pegfilgrastim biological product.

58. On information and belief, Counterclaim Defendants have a 100 percent share of the relevant market.

59. On information and belief, Counterclaim Defendants receive $3.649 billion in net revenues from the sale of Neulasta® in the U.S. alone. See Amgen's 10-K at pp. 45 and F-49.

60. Counterclaim Defendants have, and have exercised, monopoly power in the relevant market.

61. Counterclaim Defendants have the power to control prices and/or exclude competition in, or prevent entry into, the relevant market.

62. There are substantial barriers to entry into the relevant market, including, but not limited to, Counterclaim Defendants' actions to preclude Apotex's entry, including, but not limited to, Counterclaim Defendants' present action for infringement of the '138 patent.

Apotex's Efforts to Compete with Counterclaim Defendants

63. On or about October 16, 2014, Apotex submitted BLA No. 761026 seeking FDA approval to market a biosimilar pegfilgrastim product, for which Neulasta® is the reference product.

64. By filing its BLA, Apotex is, or will become, a direct competitor with Counterclaim Defendants in the relevant market.

65. On December 15, 2014, Apotex received notification from the FDA that their BLA had been accepted for review.

66. On December 31, 2014, in accordance with 42 U.S.C. § 262(l)(2)(A), Apotex provided Counterclaim Defendants with Apotex's BLA, which contains detailed information about Apotex's Pegfilgrastim Product, including specifications pertaining to the refolding conditions used to manufacture Apotex's Pegfilgrastim Product, which indicates that the protein concentration and refold buffer strength do not fall within the ranges claimed in Amgen's '138 patent.

67. In a letter dated February 27, 2015, Counterclaim Defendants provided Apotex a list of patents for which Counterclaim Defendants purported a claim of patent infringement could reasonably be asserted against the Apotex Pegfilgrastim Product ("Amgen's (l)(3)(A) list"). This list included the Patents-in-Suit, i.e., the '784 and '138 patents, as well as the '933 patent, which is now expired.

68. On April 17, 2015, pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 262(l)(3)(B), Apotex provided Counterclaim Defendants with a detailed statement regarding each patent included in Amgen's (l)(3)(A) list ("Apotex's Detailed Statement").

69. Apotex's Detailed Statement contained a certification pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 262(l)(3)(B)(ii)(II) that Apotex does not intend to begin commercial marketing of Apotex's Pegfilgrastim Product before the date on which '784 and '933 patents expire.

70. Apotex's Detailed Statement also contained the legal and factual bases for Apotex's contention that the claims of the '138 patent are invalid, unenforceable, and/or will not be infringed by the commercial marketing of Apotex's Pegfilgrastim Product.

71. As set forth in Apotex's Detailed Statement, the manufacture of Apotex's Pegfilgrastim Product will not infringe the '138 patent at least because (1) the concentration of the filgrastim critical intermediate in the refold buffer does not fall within the protein concentration range (i.e., 2.0 g/L or greater) that is required by all of the claims of the '138 patent and (2) the refold buffer strength does not fall within concentration range (i.e., 2 mM or greater) that is required by all of the claims of the '138 patent.

72. Despite the conclusive and irrefutable proof provided to Counterclaim Defendants that the method of producing Apotex's Pegfilgrastim Product covered by Apotex's BLA does not and cannot infringe Amgen's '138 patent, Counterclaim Defendants nonetheless filed this lawsuit which included an objectively baseless claim alleging infringement of the '138 patent. Plaintiffs filed this objectively baseless claim for the purpose of significantly delaying Apotex's entry into relevant markets.

Nature of Counterclaim Defendants Anticompetitive Activity

73. Apotex suffered anticompetitive injury by Counterclaim Defendants' actions, including, but not limited to, the filing and continuing prosecution of this action.

74. Counterclaim Defendants' actions, as described herein, evidence their specific intent to restrain competition, attempt to monopolize, and to monopolize the relevant market.

75. Counterclaim Defendants have engaged in an overall predatory scheme to monopolize the relevant market through actions including, but not limited to, initiating objectively baseless and sham judicial proceedings designed to effectuate their monopoly of pegfilgrastim.

76. These judicial proceedings are not a genuine effort to obtain an adjudication of a valid patent claim that is infringed; rather, they were instituted to achieve an unlawful objective to the detriment of competition in the relevant market. The purpose of such action is to directly interfere with and to harm the business of competitors in the relevant market, including Apotex, and to forestall, frustrate and prevent competition by such competitors.

77. Counterclaim Defendants' anticompetitive and monopolistic actions evince their overall predatory scheme to injure or destroy competition in the relevant market. Counterclaim Defendants have baselessly and improperly wielded the '138 patent, including a claim under 35 U.S.C. § 285, as an anticompetitive weapon in order to consolidate, entrench, and enhance their monopolistic position in the relevant market and to stifle and eliminate competition and competitors with no economic, market, or competitive benefit.

78. Counterclaim Defendants' exclusionary, anticompetitive, and unlawful action will severely discourage Apotex from marketing its pegfilgrastim biosimilar product upon FDA approval because of the threat of substantial damages by Amgen, which made $3.649 billion in net revenues from the sale of Neulasta® in 2014 in the U.S. alone.

79. Counterclaim Defendants' exclusionary, anticompetitive, and unlawful action will burden Apotex with substantial litigation costs to defend itself against an objectively baseless infringement claim on the '138 patent.

80. By pursuing this objectively baseless infringement claim on the '138 patent, Counterclaim Defendants also seek to deter downstream customers from buying pegfilgrastim biosimilar products.

81. Instead of allowing Apotex to enter the market for pegfilgrastim biosimilar products, Counterclaim Defendants, with specific intent to maintain monopoly power over the relevant market, instituted this suit against Apotex on August 6, 2015, alleging, inter alia, infringement of the '138 patent. On information and belief, Counterclaim Defendants filed this lawsuit with an intent to delay, hamper, hinder and impede Apotex from entering the market with its proposed pegfilgrastim product.

82. Counterclaim Defendants initiated litigation after Apotex provided their BLA which clearly indicates that the manufacture of Apotex's Pegfilgrastim Product is not covered by the '138 patent claims. The manufacture of Apotex's Pegfilgrastim Product is well outside the scope of the '138 patent under any theory of infringement.

83. Counterclaim Defendants initiated litigation after Apotex provided their Detailed Statement which provides the detailed factual and legal bases for Apotex's position on the non-infringement of Apotex's Pegfilgrastim Product and the invalidity of the '138 patent.

84. On information and belief, the patent infringement claims that Counterclaim Defendants asserted in this lawsuit against Apotex are objectively baseless. No reasonable litigant could expect to secure favorable relief against Apotex upon the merits under the '138 patent.

85. Counterclaim Defendants brought their patent infringement claims in bad faith, for an improper purpose, and as a means of directly interfering with and harming Apotex's business and in order to forestall, frustrate and prevent competition by Apotex. Counterclaim Defendants' ulterior motive is, and has been, to limit competition in the relevant market and to maintain a monopoly in the relevant market.

86. Counterclaim Defendants' motives are evidenced in Amgen's 10-K Annual Report dated February 19, 2015, which states: "we expect in the future to face greater competition in the United States as a result of biosimilars and downward pressure on our product prices and sales, subject to our ability to enforce our patents. This additional competition could have a material adverse effect on our business and results of operations." See Amgen's 10-K Annual Report dated February 19, 2015 at p.27 (emphasis added).

87. Upon information and belief, Counterclaim Defendants intentionally engaged in the exclusionary conduct alleged herein with the express purpose of achieving and maintaining monopoly power in the market of pegfilgrastim.

88. Counterclaim Defendants' litigation filed against Apotex alleging infringement of the '138 patent is both objectively and subjectively baseless. Counterclaim Defendants' litigation filed against Apotex alleging infringement of the '138 patent constitutes sham litigation and bad faith enforcement of Amgen's patents.

89. Counterclaim Defendants' anticompetitive activities are a direct, proximate, and reasonably foreseeable cause of Apotex's foreclosure from the relevant market.

90. Counterclaim Defendants have created a dangerous probability that they will achieve their goal of maintaining a monopoly in the relevant market.

91. Counterclaim Defendants' market share in the relevant market, coupled with other market structure and conduct evidence, including, but not limited to, the lack of competition for pegfilgrastim, the likely effect of competitive entry, the nature of the anticompetitive conduct alleged herein, and related economic and market factors, constitute a dangerous probability that Counterclaim Defendants will succeed in their efforts to maintain a monopoly in the relevant market.

92. But for Counterclaim Defendants' actions alleged herein, Counterclaim Defendants' market share in the relevant market would have decreased with the addition of strong competitors, such as Apotex and other subsequent generic drug manufacturers, to the benefit of competition and consumers in the relevant market.

93. Upon information and belief, Counterclaim Defendants have not acted to advance their position by competing on the merits in the relevant market, but solely to exclude potential competition from an alternate source in the relevant market.

94. Counterclaim Defendants' exclusionary, anticompetitive, and unlawful actions have harmed consumers by depriving them of timely market entry of low cost, alternative pegfilgrastim biosimilar products.

95. Counterclaim Defendants have unlawfully acquired and/or maintained monopoly power in the relevant market as a result of the conduct alleged herein.

96. As demonstrated by the foregoing conduct alleged herein, Counterclaim Defendants have acted with the specific intent to monopolize the relevant market.

97. The effect of Counterclaim Defendants' overall scheme, course of conduct, and attempt to maintain a monopoly will be to unreasonably restrain trade and commerce in the relevant market, and permit Counterclaim Defendants to continue to monopolize the relevant market in violation of Section 2 of the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. § 2.

98. Counterclaim Defendants' exclusionary, anticompetitive, and unlawful activities, as alleged herein, threaten loss or damage to Apotex by forestalling, frustrating, and preventing Apotex's ability to compete in the relevant market.

99. As a result of Counterclaim Defendants' exclusionary, anticompetitive, and unlawful actions, Apotex has suffered, and will continue to suffer, injury to their business and property, including lost profits and business opportunities.

100. The Counterclaim Defendants are not entitled to Noerr-Pennington immunity in connection with their filing and maintenance of this sham lawsuit.

COUNT IV
(Declaratory Judgment of Unenforceability of the '138 Patent for Patent Misuse)

101. Apotex hereby incorporates by reference each and every allegation set forth in its Answer and Affirmative Defenses to the Complaint and ¶¶ 1-100 of these Counterclaims.

102. Upon information and belief, Counterclaim Defendants did not carry out a good faith investigation based on the BLA documents produced by Apotex on December 31, 2014, and the Detailed Statement provided by Apotex on April 17, 2015, and Counterclaim Defendants do not have a good faith factual or legal basis to allege that Apotex's Pegfilgrastim Product infringes any valid and/or enforceable claim of the '138 patent.

103. Counterclaim Defendants filed this action without regard for the merits of their infringement claims and for the purpose of delaying Apotex's entry into the marketplace for pegfilgrastim.

104. By filing and prosecuting this action, Counterclaim Defendants misused the '138 patent to obtain market benefit beyond that which inheres in the statutory patent right.

105. Counterclaim Defendants' baseless allegations of patent coverage beyond that which is actually and validly claimed impermissibly broadened the physical or temporal scope of the '138 patent.

106. Upon information and belief, Counterclaim Defendants' misuse of the '138 patent hinders and/or prevents the entry of competitors in the relevant market, and, therefore, is one in a manner that has anticompetitive effects.

107. The claims of the '138 patent are unenforceable as a result of Counterclaim Defendants' patent misuse.

COUNT V

(Declaratory Judgment That Subsection (k) Applicants Who Have Complied with 42 U.S.C. § 262(l)(2)(A) May Elect Not to Provide Notice of Commercial Marketing to the Reference Product Sponsor, Subject to the Consequences Set Forth in 42 U.S.C. § 262(l)(9)(B))

108. Apotex hereby incorporates by reference each and every allegation set forth in its Answer and Affirmative Defenses to the Complaint and ¶¶ 1-107 of these Counterclaims.

109. In addition to providing an abbreviated pathway for regulatory approval of biosimilars, as discussed above, and providing a framework for handling patent disputes, the BPCIA also states at 42 U.S.C. § 262(l)(8)(A): “[t]he subsection (k) applicant shall provide notice to the reference product sponsor not later than 180 days before the date of the first commercial marketing of the biological product licensed under subsection (k).”

110. In the event that a subsection (k) applicant elects not to provide a provide a notice of commercial marketing, 42 U.S.C. § 262(l)(9)(B) dictates the consequences:

If a subsection (k) applicant fails to complete an action required of the subsection (k) applicant under paragraph (3)(B)(ii), paragraph

(5), paragraph (6)(C)(i), paragraph (7), or paragraph (8)(A), the reference product sponsor, but not the subsection (k) applicant, may bring an action under section 2201 of title 28 for a declaration of infringement, validity, or enforceability of any patent included in the list described in paragraph (3)(A), including as provided under paragraph (7).

(Emphasis added.) In other words, the BPCIA expressly contemplates and provides for the situation where a biosimilar applicant declines to provide a notice of commercial marketing, which triggers a reference product sponsor's right to bring suit under BPCIA subsection (l)(9)(B).

111. Accordingly, with regard to the notice of commercial marketing, the BPCIA contemplates at least two pathways for a biosimilar applicant who has complied with 42 U.S.C. § 262(l)(2)(A)—either such biosimilar applicant provides the reference product sponsor with the notice of commercial marketing or it does not.

112. Apotex is entitled to a judgment declaring that the BPCIA allows a biosimilar applicant, who has complied with 42 U.S.C. § 262(l)(2)(A), to elect not to provide the reference product sponsor with the notice of commercial marketing, subject only to the consequences set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 262(l)(9)(B).

113. Such a declaration is necessary and appropriate at this time to determine the rights and obligations of the parties.

COUNT VI
(Declaratory Judgment of No Injunctive Relief Under BPCIA)

114. Apotex hereby incorporates by reference each and every allegation set forth in its Answer and Affirmative Defenses to the Complaint and ¶¶ 1-113 of these Counterclaims.

115. With regard to the notice of commercial marketing, the BPCIA contemplates at least two pathways for a biosimilar applicant who has complied with 42 U.S.C. § 262(l)(2)(A)— either the biosimilar applicant provides the reference product sponsor with the notice of commercial marketing, or it does not.

116. The BPCIA expressly states that if the if the biosimilar applicant elects not to provide a notice of commercial marketing “the reference product sponsor . . . may bring an action under section 2201 of title 28 for a declaration of infringement, validity, or enforceability of any patent included in the list described in paragraph (3)(A).” 42 U.S.C. § 262(l)(9)(B).

117. The BPCIA does not provide for the reference product sponsor to obtain an injunction if the biosimilar applicant elects not to provide a notice of commercial marketing.

118. Apotex is entitled to a judgment declaring that Counterclaim Defendants cannot obtain injunctive relief, including enjoining Apotex from commencing commercial marketing of the Apotex Pegfilgrastim Product until a date that is at least 180 days after Apotex provides effective notice to Amgen under 42 U.S.C. § 262(l)(8)(A), for Apotex electing not to provide Amgen with a notice of commercial marketing.

119. Such a declaration is necessary and appropriate at this time to determine the rights and obligations of the parties.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

- B. Declaring that the claims of the '138 patent are invalid;
- C. Declaring that the claims of the '138 patent are unenforceable for patent misuse;

- D. Declaring that Counterclaim Defendants violated Section 2 of the Sherman Act and awarding Apotex damages (including costs and reasonable attorneys' fees) and that such damages be trebled;
- E. Declaring that Apotex may elect not to provide the reference product sponsor with a notice of commercial marketing, subject only to the consequences of 42 U.S.C. § 262(l)(9)(B);
- F. Declaring that Counterclaim Defendants cannot obtain injunctive relief, including enjoining Apotex from commencing commercial marketing of the Apotex Pegfilgrastim Product until a date that is at least 180 days after Apotex provides effective notice to Amgen under 42 U.S.C. § 262(l)(8)(A), for Apotex electing not to provide the reference product sponsor with the notice of commercial marketing;
- G. Granting Apotex judgment in its favor on Plaintiffs' Complaint;
- H. Denying any and all requests by Counterclaim Defendants for injunctive relief;
